

the edit

Note This curvaceous pot by Anissa Kermiche is sure to be the talk of the tea party

'Tit Tea' teapot, £135, Anissa Kermiche (anissakermiche.com)

'Teiera' teapot, approx £640, Natalia Criado (nataliacriado.com)

'Botanica' teapot by Alessandra Baldereschi for Ichendorf Milano, £61, SCP (scp.co.uk)

'Laundry' teapot, approx £180, Lola Mayeras (lalamayeras.com)

'Teema' teapot by Kaj Franck, £60, Iittala (iittala.com)

Note Teaware royalty Ginori 1735's latest collection pays tribute to 1950s Italian design

'Colonna Re-Edition' teapot, £1,500 for a six-piece tea set, Ginori 1735 (ginori1735.com)

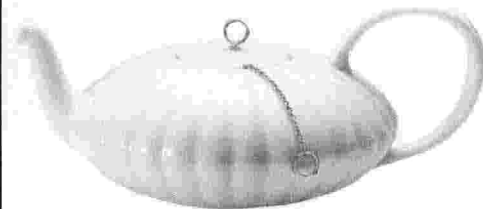

'Verde Maiolica' teapot, £750, Dolce & Gabbana Casa (dolcegabbana.com)

Note With room for a mighty 1,400ml, Avantcha's tall, slender glass vessel is for the tea-drinking addicts among us

'Grande' teapot, approx £50, Avantcha (avantcha.com)

'Bernadotte' teapot by Sigvard Bernadotte, £100, Georg Jensen (georgjensen.com)

'The Hot' teapot by Neri & Hu for Paola C, £360, Monologue (monologuelondon.com)

'Chess' teapot by Pols Potten, £90, Flannels (flannels.com)

WORDS: AILCE FINNEY

Teapots

From short and stout to leggy and lean, teapots are shaping up to be this season's kitchen must-have. While practicality is key, don't be afraid to lean into your Mad Hatter side and choose one with bags of character

Ritaglio stampa ad uso esclusivo del destinatario, non riproducibile.